Customer profile and expected cash activity

Profile Item	Recorded Value
Business purpose	Operate a neighborhood convenience store.
Owner	Marcus Delgado-Whitfield
Registered address	SYNTH 100 Example St, Sunnyvale, CA 94000
Expected operating region	CA
Expected monthly cash deposits	20-30 deposits; $20,000-$32,000
Typical single cash deposit	$600-$1,800
Recorded source of funds	Retail sales (cash and card)
Risk rating	Medium - Cash-intensive retail business.

The five flagged deposits exceed typical single-deposit expectations. Their short-window total also exceeds the profile monthly maximum; the periods are different and this is a contextual comparison.

Depositor Details and Funds Explanation

C001 | ACC-C001-01 | ALR-7770C31638BD

Branch and depositor details

Field	Recorded Value
Branch	SYNTH-BR-CA-001, California
Channel	Branch teller for all five deposits
Depositor reference	C001 for all five deposits
Customer indicator	Depositor is customer: true
Identity limitation	No teller ID check, deposit slip or identification document is included.

Source-of-funds explanation

FICTIONAL SAMPLE CUSTOMER EXPLANATION - UNSIGNED

For demonstration purposes, assume the business explains that the five deposits represent accumulated convenience-store cash takings, deposited in batches after a delay in taking cash to the branch. The claimed underlying source is retail sales. This explanation is invented for workflow testing and is not corroborated by sales records.

Items Needed to Validate This Explanation

Reconcile each deposit to dated till-close reports, the cashbook and deposit slips. Establish when the cash was earned, why deposits were delayed, who handled the cash, and why each deposit was substantially above the expected range. No allocation to individual sales days is supported by the supplied records.

Evidence Status

Transaction and profile extracts are included. The source-of-funds narrative is a sample only. Cash-sales reconciliation and independent depositor verification remain outstanding. No signature or verification attestation has been generated.
